Fort Discovery to Host Cooking Demonstration
Benefiting Golden Harvest Food Bank
November 10, 2007

October 29, 2007. Augusta, GA.—The National Science Center's Fort Discovery will host a cooking demonstration at 2 p.m. on Saturday, November 10. Augusta native Angela McKellar, host of the cooking show "Kick Back and Kook!" (www.kickbackkook.com) who recently appeared on Paula Deen's cooking show "Paula's Party," will be returning to her hometown to offer a "kook"ing demonstration of a red, white and blue dessert that will teach everyone how to flambé. Samples of the dessert are free to all attendees on a first come, first serve basis.

In honor of Veteran's Day weekend, veterans will receive free admission with their military ID, and military personnel will also receive free admission with a valid ID. Their children can get in free by bringing one canned food item, and all children get in free with a paying adult.

Visitors are asked to participate in Fort Discovery's canned food drive benefiting Golden Harvest Food Bank by bringing in a minimum of two canned goods. A coupon to Fort Discovery's Science Store will be offered to all who participate. For more information, please call 1-706-821-0600.
